

(*) Except for physical Laws of Nature, the Creation Model also predicts logical / organisational Laws of Nature as a foundation for natural intelligence, reasoning and the self-organisation of knowledge:

Natural intelligence is the harnessing of natural logic, and our brains use that natural logic to organise their knowledge autonomously. This inherent capacity for self-organisation distinguishes natural intelligence from Artificial Intelligence. For example, language models cannot integrate new knowledge with existing knowledge once they have been trained.